Mr Fabris

I know this is a little late in response to your questions in Arcadian #8. I am interested in expanding my present unit however possible, so my basic answer to your questions is that I would be interested in going from 350 to 650 dollars with the Bally keyboard. Also I would go for an expandable unit of another making. The main reason for writing is to keep myself on you list of those interested. My Unit is a model BL-1200 serial 4348. I have tiny basic and a few cartridges, I presently have a member of the tidewater computer club trying to interface the bally with a Printec 100 printer that I received for a good price.

Thank you
